Public Transportation

Honolulu is serviced by one of the greatest systems of public transportation in the US. The City and County of Honolulu manages the Oahu Transit System that includes TheBus, Handi-Van, and the trolley. Bus transportation is provided in every residential area on the island to all commercial locations. Oahu's bus transit has the lowest cost per passenger mile and one of the lowest cost per boarding passenger in the industry. The American Public Transit Association named TheBus "America's Best Transit System" in 2000-2001 as well as in 1994-1995. Handi-Van was included in recognition of the award as America's best para-transit service for persons with disabilities.

Weekday ridership on TheBus is approximately 240,000 trips, or 70 million a year. TheBus has 86 routes serving the entire Honolulu. There are approximately 4,000 bus stops on the island. Handi-Van also provides service throughout the island of Oahu with curb-to-curb service for those who are unable to take TheBus. The trolley runs every 30 minutes with express service to Kaimuki, Kapahulu, and Waikiki.
